Prayer Changes the Atmosphere of the Home

The nuclear family has come under attack in recent years. There are evil forces beyond anything we can even imagine trying to pull families apart and distorting the concept of what is a family. These forces are spiritual, and it is futile to fight this kind of battle with natural weapons. We need supernatural assistance to overcome them. The statistics of divorce, single parenting, families in poverty and crisis, and other pressing concerns can seem overwhelming sometimes. Families desperately need to be strengthened. The power released through praying together is what can make the difference. Few things in life really matter. One is our relationship with God and the other is family. A small number of factors are responsible for the most results. Family life is a prime example. It is the small and consistent things that couples do to affirm each other, and what parents do to invest in their children that produce a lifetime of fruit, even into the next generation. Small but targeted efforts can produce massive results. The decision to make family prayer a top priority in the home is a small decision that will produce massive results. It can bring about the things that matter most: a vibrant relationship with the Lord, a close-knit family that is growing spiritually, and a home where patience, joy and love are practiced and the presence of God is experienced.

We'd love to pray for you! Update our online prayer chain by going to easthaven.org. Click resources, then prayer. Click on share your prayer request and fill out the form.
